

Associate Director of Lower School Admission and Outreach

Founded by Miss Agnes Irwin, the first Dean of Radcliffe College and the great-great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, The Agnes Irwin School (AIS) has been a leader in fostering the intellectual and personal growth of girls and young women since 1869. Serving 606 girls in Pre-Kindergarten through 12th grade, AIS is an independent day school offering a lively and stimulating environment in which to work and learn.

Situated on a beautiful and well-equipped campus in Philadelphia's western suburbs, The Agnes Irwin School is dedicated to the mission of empowering girls "to learn, to lead, and to live a legacy." Enrolling 130 girls in grades PK-4, the Lower School offers a nurturing learning experience featuring collaborative classroom environments that allow girls to feel known and understood.

For a position to begin in August of 2018, AIS seeks a charismatic professional to serve as Associate Director of Lower School Admission and Outreach. Reporting to the Director of Enrollment Management, the Associate Director must be an enthusiastic advocate for the benefits of all-girls education.

This is an excellent opportunity for an admission professional to join a dynamic recruiting team at a top-flight independent school in a competitive market. AIS is looking for an original thinker who can help shape the school's long-term recruitment strategy. The successful candidate will also be an outstanding communicator who can connect easily with the families of young children and serve as an effective ambassador for the mission, values, and culture of The Agnes Irwin School.

Acting on behalf of The Agnes Irwin School, Wickenden Associates is actively recruiting well-qualified professionals for this appealing career opportunity. Prospective candidates may contact the lead consultants, Linda Knights at lknight@wickenden.com and Sue Walters swalters@wickenden.com or by calling 609-683-1355 to discuss the opportunity and the process in more detail. This search is being conducted on a rolling basis, and interested applicants should be in touch as soon as possible.
